A credit account may, on occasions, only be offered when supported by a credit card as a means of payment. A separate Credit Card Authorisation Form is then required to be completed, giving authority for the credit card to be used to cover any and all future charges. A credit card may also be used as a method of payment for Proforma accounts. Samples received without agreed credit terms will be quarantined upon receipt and only released for analysis once a credit account has been approved or payment has been made to cover the charges.
